Policy Statement

What I Do:

- Provide counseling for children, adolescents, couples, and families that supports healing.
- Suggest books, support groups, classes, and information for parents that may help with custody, visitation, and shared parenting.
- For court-ordered clients, I can report the number of sessions attended, session dates, and client's level of involvement in therapy.
- Report harm to self or others according to Colorado Law.

What I Do Not Do:

- Mediation between parties in dispute.
- Participate in legal aspects of court cases, including testifying.
- Make recommendations for parenting time, custody or visitation for children in divorce or separation situations.
- Evaluate a child for possible sexual or physical abuse or neglect.

I understand that a second mental health therapist or special advocate specifically hired as an evaluator can offer recommendations to an attorney or to the court. I agree not to request that Andrew Rose communicate with an attorney or with any court about what he knows about me or my child.

I have read and understand these policies.
